Persona and Brand Project Summary

Prepared by Darren Savage

Delivered 30 June 2025

Argyll

What we set out to do

1

A revised brand definition
based on a multiple perspective research and analysis

2

A set of client personas
based on qualitative and quantitative research and analysis

3

Implications and opportunities for promoting Argyll to new and existing clients and positioning the brand for growth

Current Argyll brand definition

Our philosophy

Why we do what we do

We enable individuals and businesses to build great reputations

---

Our vision

What we want to be in the future

To provide the world's most exclusive office environments for small, high-powered teams

---

Our values

What defines us, how we show up, what matters most

Pride of Place | Exceptional Service | Power of teamwork | Forward Thinking

Insights summary

The Brand Now
Current –philosophy, vision, mission, values, identity, messaging

Culture
Argyll is an established experienced business, with a clear vision of what it wants to become, and employees motivated to deliver

Culture
A choice of office buildings that match client's attitudes, preferences and sensibilities regarding work culture

Product
A unique unbranded proposition, that combines prestige postcodes, statement buildings, and exceptional service

Competition
Create distinction and desire by selling the unique character and experiences of each office building

Employee View of Brand
Empowered to create a unique culture appropriate for every office building and its occupants

Client View of Brand
A potent combination of prestige locations, buildings with character, high level service, flexible spaces and an office that feel like clients own

The Brand Next
Revised – philosophy, vision, mission, values, identity, messaging

Revised brand definition

Our philosophy

Why we do what we do

We provide unique office environments that inspire and enable businesses to develop strong identities and express powerful reputations

A little more narrative to reflect that fact Argyll have office buildings, in which the combination of location, architecture, service and office design come together to benefit clients in two important and related ways:
a) inwardly – how they see themselves
b) outwardly – how they want others to see them

Our vision

What we want to be in the future

To become industry leaders for curating, designing and servicing prestigious office environments that give small teams the confidence and means to thrive

Expanded a little to add ambitions (to become…) and to make Argyll play a more active role, and which incorporate a functional and emotional client benefit – this follows on from the dual benefits of the revised philosophy

Our values

What defines us, how we show up, what matters most

Pride of Place / Exceptional Service / Power of teamwork / Forward Thinking

Offices are designed to enable clients to work however they need/want to, and can be adapted to meet many needs and preferences

Those who run and work in each building are empowered to create a culture that is tailored to service clients needs appropriately

Any change will be carefully considered and implemented, working with clients

Defining a unified brand and persona's

5 key attributes stand out as being especially important and motivating regarding the choice, relevance and satisfaction with Argyll

Analysis turned six key attitudinal questions into two behavioural dimensions –location and business type - to identify 4 persona's

Defining characteristics of Argyll's unifying appeal

1. Location prestige

Premium postcodes that infer success, stability and confidence

2. High stability

Consistency and stability projects resilience, and builds confidence, trust, familiarity and loyalty

3. Unbranded

Makes clients feel a greater sense of connection to the building, meets a range of needs for discretion, and creates a "grown-up" feel versus competitors with 'heavy branding'

4.Personal service

Personal service that combines a friendly, approachable style, with a highly professional and proactive attitude to meeting clients needs and addressing issues

5. Building character

Heritage properties with architectural history and warmth, provide a so-called wow factor for visitors, and creates a positive mood for employees

The 4 key personas

Based on office building needs and preferences, and attitudes to work

The Private Professional

The Dynamic Executive

The Hybrid Consultant

The Creative Entrepreneur

The matrix map definitions

Progressive

These people have embraced modern ways of working and attitudes to the role of the office regarding productivity and company culture

Calm / Private

These people prefer a working environment that is located somewhere more discreet, and the inside feels ordered, peaceful and private

Stimulating / Public

These people prefer a working environment that is located somewhere that makes a statement, and inside feels dynamic and creative

Traditional

These people generally maintain more conventional views on working in the office and how this creates culture

The 4 key personas – mapped to the matrix

Progressive

The Hybrid Consultant

The Creative Entrepreneur

Calm / Private

Stimulating / Public

The Private Professional

The Dynamic Executive

Traditional

The Private Professional

Pen Portrait Profile:

These people need quiet, enclosed spaces, especially for client meetings and private calls

Attract them by

Communicate that Argyll own heritage properties in culturally and historically rich locations that present the business with the means to project a smart, quietly confident, established and trustworthy image, ideal for traditional types of business

Sell to them by

Emphasise the calm, private feel of the building, the interior layout providing space for highly private meetings and focused work; and staff that are sensitive and make visitors feel they are entering a discreet, anonymous space in, which they can feel at ease and looked after

Reassure them by

Emphasise that Argyll is established, stable and consistent, that they will uphold traditional ways of working, and that any change will be considered and sensitive to clients

Office building fit

Strongest fit: Brook Street, Pall Mall, Hudson House

The Dynamic Executive

Pen Portrait Profile:

These clients prefer a mix of formal meeting spaces to impress visitors, enclosed spaces, for private calls, and multipurpose more social and informal working areas

Attract them by

Communicate that Argyll have statement office buildings at the heart of where things happen, that will provide them with the means to project an image of style, success and confidence, and make visitors feel impressed by a combination of good taste and iconic stature

Sell to them by

Emphasise way Argyll office buildings will feel like they shared, not serviced, that visitors are being given access to somewhere exclusive, with privacy and seclusion; and that employees are on the ball and proactive when it comes to providing help and assistance

Reassure them by

Emphasise the unique historical and cultural properties of the building they are in, the strong image this projects that supports their professional ambitions, and that Argyll are on the front foot regarding keeping up with tech

Office building fit

Strongest fit: Gresham Street, *1 Cornhill, Cavendish Square

The Hybrid Consultant

Pen Portrait Profile:

These people need a broad range of working spaces to cover focused work, to open collaboration and areas for clients and visitors to work in

Attract them by

Communicate that Argyll share their progressive attitudes to the modern office, have smart buildings that project an image of style, and reflect more grown-up taste and preferences Vs. other serviced offices

Sell to them by

Emphasise that the interior of Argyll offices have been designed to cater for that meet their need for a broad and flexible range of spaces to match different ways of working; and that employees are friendly and approachable, that feel like an extension of their business

Reassure them by

Communicate that Argyll provide a perfect balance of office buildings that reflects personal tastes for heritage and cultural pedigree, with a range of smart and adaptable spaces within to facilitate different thinking and working styles

Office building fit

Strongest fit: Central Court, Octagon Point, 53 Davies Street

The Creative Entrepreneur

Pen Portrait Profile:

These people tend to favour a range of informal, collaborative spaces, and a calmer space for more focused work

Attract them by

Argyll provides more interesting, unique office buildings compared with most other serviced offices, that enables the freedom and autonomy to however they work, and projects a creative and entrepreneurial spirit

Sell to them by

Emphasise that Argyll matches their need for more unique, stylish and smart office space, that provide a spark of inspiration, with modern fit outs and furniture, rock-solid tech; and have employees that provide a mix of informal but on point care and attention

Reassure them by

Communicate that Argyll are progressive and adaptive regarding the way modern offices need to work, and want to collaborate with clients to devise new, flexible, and stimulating designs and technology services

Office building fit

Strongest fit: Michelin House, Central Court

Overview of personas mapped to office building

This chart illustrates the best match between persona and office building, in some cases there are characteristics of the office location that could be appealing to multiple personas - white dots represent the strongest potential fit

| PERSONA'S MAPPED TO OFFICE BUILDING | 2 Eaton Gate | 29 Farm Street | 53 Davies Street | Berkeley Square | Bishopsgate | Brook Street | Cavendish Square | Central Court | Cornhill | Gresham Street | Hill Street | Hudson House | King William Street | Michelin House | North Audley Street | Nova North | Octagon Point | Pall Mall | Pont Street | 14 Curzon Street | 32 Curzon Street |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| PERSONA 1: The Private Profesional | | | | | | ● | | | | | | ● | | | | | | ● | | | |
| PERSONA 2: The Dynamic Executive | | | | | | | ● | | ● | ● | | | | | | | | | | | |
| PERSONA 3: The Hybrid Consultant | | | ● | | | | | ● | | | | | | | | | ● | | | | |
| PERSONA 4: The Creative Entrepreneur | | | | | | | | ● | | | | | | ● | | | | | | | |

NOTE: this table is intended to be a general guide, not a hard and fixed set of recommendations

Next steps

How to use the personas across the business

Marketing – Refine brand messaging to ensure we're attracting the right audiences and positioning Argyll in a way that resonates with each persona.

Property Services – Align the design and aesthetic of refurbishments with the expectations, preferences, and working styles of our key personas.

Investments – Use persona insights to guide acquisition decisions by understanding the workplace needs and attitudes of our target audiences.

Sales – Train the team on how to apply personas when selling - identifying which buildings to promote, and tailoring messages to suit different customer profiles.

Operations – Evaluate building standards, service touchpoints, and even uniforms to better align with the expectations of each persona, and how these may vary across locations.

People – Review hiring and placement practices to ensure team members are well-matched to the cultural and service expectations of customers in each building.

IT – Explore how technology can better serve the needs of each persona, and assess where to scale up or streamline digital touchpoints across the portfolio.

Next steps - some examples

How to use the personas across the business

Marketing – Many clients find the niche / market sweet spot that Argyll occupies highly motivating and different- make sure the core appeal of Argyll remains the focus, with subtle variations for the 4 persona's

Property Services – Some clients expressed an interest in spaces that could be multi purpose, others liked having spaces that were designed for a very specific use e.g. phone calls.

Sales – Personas should be a starting point, but be careful not to make too many assumptions e.g. a finance client loved Michelin House because it is not typically associated with financial services and made him feel more creative

Operations – Many clients expressed an interest in better and easier ways to book spaces for certain types of meeting, especially conference calls

People – E.g. family law and therapists in locations such as Brook Street need people who are sympathetic with visitors that may be experience emotional distress. Review hiring and placement practices to ensure team members are well-matched to the cultural and service expectations of customers in each building.

IT – E.g. clients such as law firm and finance that are moving to paperless offices need advice on cloud and A.I. solutions in term of selecting, configuring and using them for storage and access